

Dear Santa Claus,

My unique little name is Kimo Ma and I am a little boy who has some concerns for your well-being. I have heard stories and tales about all the nice things you do for all the nice kids. Those things you do to make me and other kids feel magical. It makes me wonder... What makes you feel magical? I would really like to return the favor and make you feel the way you make kids throughout the world feel. Do you have a happy place? I do not know much about the world yet but I do not believe the North Pole is your happy place. I also do not think living in the freezing cold is what makes you feel magical. So what is it, Santa Claus? Do the reindeers keep you warm? Or do the elves that make you warm blankets to sleep in? Oh I know! It must be Mrs. Claus right? You live there all year to prepare the most special gifts to children around the world but do you not get tired of the cold? I am not the person to judge but if the cold North Pole is not your happy magical place I want you to come with me to another magical place called Narnia. Do not fret Santa Claus this magical place will be your little vacation. You can see trees, flowers, and butterflies. You can see all the beautiful things you do not get to see in the winter cold.

Let me introduce you to Aslan, he is a talking lion. You both are very similar. He is really friendly and the king of Narnia, just like how you are the king of North Pole. I want to be sure you get some sun in your skin and some fun in your heart so you can forever make kids all over the world happy. I know this is something you would like because Mrs. Claus told me you needed a little break from work. Do you have any ideas to what you want to do in Narnia? If not, that is okay. I'll be your number one tour guide. Of course, Aslan will also help in the process. Do you like waterfalls? I'm sure there are no waterfalls in the North Pole right? There is a beautiful waterfall that shows a reflection of a tiny rainbow at midday. We could go there first and then have a picnic at the Flaming Mountain of Lagour. I know you like the cold and all but the flaming mountain is a sight to see at Narnia. Lastly, we can visit the magical closet where you can teleport anywhere you like in the world. If you like, you can return to the North Pole anytime. I hope this trip will work out for you and make you feel happy. This is the only thing I want for Christmas.

Sincerely,

Kimo Ma
